State Department Note Brings About Crisis; Answer Is Anxiously Awaited

Orozco to Be Judged by Deeds Rather Than by Promises; Americans to Arm

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The State Department's 10 o'clock note to the contending factions in Mexico, warning them against any mistreatment of Americans, is believed to have brought the relations between the United States and Mexico to the critical point. This is a fair deduction from past experience and tradition of the State Department, notably and recently in the case of Cuba.

It is recalled that such warning as this preceded the Spanish-American war, culminating in the famous message of President McKinley which referred "to intolerable conditions existing at our doorway."

It still is hoped and believed by administration officials, however, that Saturday's notes will have a sobering effect on the passions of the Mexicans and that it will not be necessary for the American government to consider drastic steps regarding Mexico. This hope led to renewed assurances from official quarters that there would be no intervention.

AWAIT ANSWER.

The next step must be taken by Mexicans either through the rebel leader, Orozco, or by President Madero, from whom some kind of an answer to the State Department's representation surely will be forthcoming. "Actions speak louder than words," was a State Department comment today in reference to Orozco, who will be judged by his deeds rather than by his promises.

Meanwhile conditions throughout Mexico have undoubtedly become worse within the last week and State Department advices from various agencies as made public show that the area of turbulence and violence has grown to formidable proportions. Conditions in the States of Michoacan, Puebla and Morelos, forming a semi-circle closely adjoining the State of Mexico, are daily becoming worse.

Similar reports come from the States of Sonora and Sinaloa.
